Overview

Turn your education and passion for health into a rewarding career as a leader in the health sector.

There has never been a more exciting time to move into a leadership role in health than in today’s increasingly complex and dynamic environment. Health Administration and Leadership focuses on real-world contemporary issues and provides you with the opportunity to acquire the practical skills you will need to be successful as a leader in a health organization.

Top Highlights

- Communicate well with clients, families, and healthcare and administrative teams to maintain engagement.
- Follow legal, ethical, and professional regulations in healthcare for quality service.
- Analyze laws, regulations, and health policies to inform decision-making in healthcare organizations.
- Examine ethics, values, and professional behavior to guide health management decisions.
- Use data and critical thinking for strategic goals.
- Manage human resources, relations, culture, and external relationships in multi-disciplinary healthcare.
- Deliver healthcare programs to diverse populations safely.

Employment Opportunities

You will be prepared to work in entry or middle management positions in clinics, hospitals, long-term care homes, non-profit organizations, and private facilities. With the growing demand for health leaders, we need you!
