This program provides a comprehensive overview of virtually every aspect of film production including directing, scriptwriting, lighting, cinematography, editing, art direction, production design, sound mixing, and the business of film. With a high teacher-to-student ratio and an excellent equipment-to-student ratio, students get more instruction and better access to equipment than similar programs elsewhere in Canada.

Students get hands-on training so they learn by doing: write, plan, direct, shoot, edit, mix, colour grade, and deliver the final cut. They make three films during the program starting in their first year. Students have 24/7 access to state-of-the-art facilities and equipment such as the industry-heralded Arri Alexa camera.

There is a variety of entry-level positions for graduates including Production Assistant, Editing Assistant, Camera Assistant and Sound Assistant. After experience and time in the industry, graduates may move up to higher positions including Director, Writer, Editor, Director of Cinematography, Sound designer, Art Director and Producer.
